

Chapter 4

A Garasiya from Hajadiyada Notices an Urdvarekha

From Rajkot, Krishnacharandas Swami traveled to Gondal, Ghoghavadar, Ramod, Bandhiya, and other villages. Nourishing the Satsang community everywhere he went, Krishnacharandas Swami arrived in the village of Hajadiyala near Sardhar. As there was no mandir in the village, the sadhus made camp in the village square.

Following the afternoon discourses, Krishnacharandas Swami took a nap. Jhina Bhagat completed his seva responsibilities and also lay down. A Garasiya devotee who was an expert in palmistry happened to be passing by. He noticed the lines on Jhina Bhagat's feet and stopped in astonishment. Jhina Bhaga saw the devotee staring at him, and he sat up to welcome him. The devotee exclaimed, "Amazing! You have the urdhvarekha mark on the soles of your feet. It indicates that you will become a great sadguru, millions of people will crave your company, and Shriji Maharaj will not be distant from you for even an instant.”

Jhina Bhagat instantly covered the soles of his feet and said, “You shouldn’t say that. I am a servant, and my sadguru is this Swami (Krishnacharandas).”

Jhina Bhagat pleaded with that devotee not to share this with anyone. However, that devotee informed Krishnacharandas Swami, who laughed and said, “Jhina Bhagat possesses all the virtues you have described. He has served me faithfully.” Though he exhibited greatness from his childhood, Jhina Bhagat engaged in seva, remaining wholly nondescript while savoring an inexpressible bliss.
